Q4. What are your priorities for 2012? (rank in order)

1	Portfolio Governance to drive efficiency and mission effectiveness	Dec 11, 2011 9:36 PM
2	IT CONSOLIDATION / STANDARIZATION	Nov 28, 2011 10:55 AM
3	#1 priority is always enabling our program areas so that they can deliver the mission of the agency.	Nov 21, 2011 2:26 PM
4	Acquisition Reform and Strategic Sourcing	Nov 21, 2011 1:04 PM

Q5. What concerns you the most about the impact of potential budget cuts on your agency?

1	Productivity tools such as agency issued mobile devices will be eliminated	Dec 2, 2011 3:26 PM
---	--	---------------------

Q7. One year later, what do you think about OMB's 25-point IT reform plan?

1	It assisted in helping me focus on what I must do for my agency	Dec 2, 2011 11:38 AM
2	It's theory, not what agencies need to ensure the CIO has control of funds. OMB should heed their project mgmt recommendations and implement initiatives with PM teams to try to get lasting change.	Nov 22, 2011 8:53 AM

Q8. How likely is your agency to have moved at least one function to the cloud by the end of 2011?

1	.gov website will go live in the cloud in Jan 2012 CRM cloud software in use Sharepoint in cloud in pilotd	Dec 2, 2011 11:38 AM
2	Security is still the biggest barrier. There seems to be conflict between gov't entities on how safe it is to move to the cloud, esp. for national security agencies.	Nov 22, 2011 8:53 AM
3	We are looking for secure, cloud opportunities with short term cost/benefit advantages. If there is a strong business case with demonstrated results in the government, we will jump for a cloud solution.	Nov 21, 2011 2:26 PM

Q9. What functions did you move or do you plan to move to the cloud in the next year? (check all that apply)

1	Agency Financial Management System went to cloud in Oct 2011. Webconferencing went to cloud in 2010. Cloud based IT Service Management Tool will go live in 2012. Agency considering cloud based DR for on-premise mission systems.	Dec 2, 2011 3:26 PM

Q11. The administration's mythbusters campaign is:

1	One memo entitled Myth Busters is not enough to make change. OMB should repurpose the memo's content as a < 30 minute webinar, website and a video targetted to the	Dec 2, 2011 3:26 PM
---	---	---------------------

Q12. Has your agency met the spirit and intent of the Clinger-Cohen Act?

1	There needs to be a real simple summary of C-C that agency senior management can understand. This will help highlight the non-compliant areas.	Dec 2, 2011 11:33 AM
2	Until CIOs truly control IT funding, Clinger-Cohen will be an aspiration. To effect the vision laid out by Clinger-Cohen, IT funding must go directly to the CIO vice the CFO.	Nov 22, 2011 8:53 AM
3	We really value both the spirit and intent of Clinger-Cohen. It is quite challenging for a small agency with a very small budget to meet all of these objectives, but we try very hard.	Nov 21, 2011 2:26 PM

Q13. I believe my agency's senior decision makers (the secretary, deputy secretary and CFO) value my input.

1	We have great support from senior career executives and in general from the politicals regardless of party.	Nov 21, 2011 2:26 PM
---	---	----------------------

Q14. I report directly to my agency's:

1	CIO, but CIO reports to a VP	Dec 6, 2011 8:20 AM
2	I report to Agency Director officially, but also to Chief of Staff on operational basis	Dec 2, 2011 11:38 AM
3	CIO	Nov 28, 2011 11:08 AM
4	Deputy Assistant Executive Director	Nov 21, 2011 2:26 PM

Q15. My agency's senior management understands the value IT can bring to my agency.

1	They are beginning to understand the strategic value of IT	Dec 2, 2011 11:38 AM
---	--	----------------------

Q16. OMB's memo from August giving the CIO more authority over agency commodity IT purchases:

1	OMB needs to tell the "business side" of the agency to focus this around the CIO	Dec 2, 2011 11:38 AM
2	The CIO already has strong financial authority over IT spend at our agency.	Nov 21, 2011 2:26 PM

Q17. Will the OMB memo:

1	No impact. Agency does not react to such memos.	Dec 6, 2011 8:20 AM
2	I already am the chief geek and have a seat. It will provide authority for de-duplicating commodity software.	Nov 28, 2011 11:19 AM
3	Will not make a difference	Nov 27, 2011 10:46 AM
4	OMB needs to move towards project management implementation and away from compliance exercise which waste valuable time and resources in the current restrictive budget climate.	Nov 22, 2011 8:53 AM
5	We value the support and guidance that both our e-Gov and budget side OMB points of contact provide. We meet with them regularly and they have been effective at helping us understand administration policy and to help us get our mission delivered. Kudos to OMB.	Nov 21, 2011 2:26 PM
6	CIO's need to be more substantially empowered to carry out the intent of the memo	Nov 21, 2011 1:10 PM

Q18. I have oversight and the ability to approve all IT spending.

1	CFO spending still out side of my purview	Dec 2, 2011 11:38 AM
2	Need further work on Mission IT Spend	Nov 28, 2011 12:18 PM
3	All funds go through CFO's office making it difficult to manage cross-agency projects as truly envisioned.	Nov 22, 2011 8:53 AM

Q19. What other comments do you have about the state of federal IT?

1	I can't get the people I need even though we are growing in our use of technology as a way to improve operations.	Dec 2, 2011 12:35 PM
2	We are overwhelmed by unfunded OMB mandates that, if implemented, would stop us dead in our tracks. (e.g. TIC)	Dec 2, 2011 11:38 AM
3	Need to move to common IT infrastructure shared services	Nov 28, 2011 11:22 AM
4	There's far greater needed for shared IT services to drive savings. Common configuration control, cloud platforms and mobile applications will truly help the gov't move away from current stovepipes and costly legacy systems.	Nov 22, 2011 8:53 AM
5	OMB is great at encouraging the best value, methods, and collaboration from Federal IT shops within their agencies. In the end, though, the CIO is responsible for producing value, demonstrating stewardship, and, most importantly, delivering mission results for the agency. If the CIO isn't doing this or has this as his or her primary drivers, there isn't much OMB can do to make it happen. I trust my comments will be held in confidence, are anonymous, and will not be attributed back to myself or my agency. Keep up the good work.	Nov 21, 2011 2:26 PM
