

U.S. GENERAL SERVICES ADMINISTRATION
Office of Inspector General

April 7, 2014

President Barack Obama
The White House
1600 Pennsylvania Avenue NW
Washington, DC 20500

Dear President Obama:

It has been my great honor to serve as Inspector General of the United States General Services Administration for nearly nine years. As a Senator, you supported me early in my tenure as an inspector general, and that meant a great deal to me. I am honored to have served you as President. The time has now come for me to seek new opportunities, and I am resigning effective April 19, 2014.

One former inspector general described inspectors general as "straddling a barbed wire fence." And so, that has been my experience. The challenges have been many and varied, but I believe that my office and GSA are the better for it. I believe that my record as Inspector General demonstrates that I have been fair, non-partisan, and effective.

I leave confident that the excellent work of my office will continue under the outstanding leadership team of the Office of Inspector General.

I am thankful for having had the opportunity to serve two fine Presidents and the American people.

Sincerely,
