A. INTRODUCTION

A.1 Identification of Agency

The General Services Administration (GSA), Federal Acquisition Service (FAS), Presidential Transition Support Team, 1800 F Street NW, Washington, DC 20405 has a requirement to acquire training and orientation activities for support services in public policy and political and governance expertise to orient approximately 4,000 (on a rolling basis) presidential appointees in support of the development and implementation of the Presidential Appointee Orientation Program. FAS intends to establish a single Blanket Purchase Agreement (BPA) under the authority of the successful Offeror's Multiple Award Schedule (MAS) BPA clause (I-FSS-646).

A.2 Type of Order

The Government anticipates awarding a Firm-Fixed-Price FFP BPA as a result of this RFQ. Separate funding will be provided for each Task Order issued under the BPA. The Contracting Officer associated with this RFQ, and identified below, shall be the only individual authorized to issue Task Orders under this BPA.

A.3 BPA Estimated Threshold

The Government estimates, but does not guarantee that the total volume of purchases under this agreement shall be $1 million. This is not a requirements contract. Each Order hereunder shall have no required minimum guarantee or maximum guarantee.

A.4 Small Business

To promote small business participation, this RFQ encourages Contractor Teaming Arrangements (CTA) and includes Socio-Economic Status as an evaluation factor.

A.5 BPA Ordering Process

The Government may place Task Orders directly under the established BPA only, in accordance with (IAW) FAR Part 8.405-3(c)(1).

B. SUPPLIES OR SERVICES AND PRICE/COSTS

B.1 Applicable Special Item Numbers (SINs)

This RFQ will establish a Firm-Fixed-Price BPA for orientation program support. The Contractor shall provide a fixed price, inclusive of all direct and indirect costs to the Contractor, for each Phase of the program.

The tables below list the events that can be used by the Offeror to provide their total fixed price. Only Contractors who currently hold one or more of the following SINs are eligible to submit a quote: SIN 874 1 - Integrated Consulting Services; SIN 874 4 – Training Services: Instructor Led Training, Web-Based Training and Education Courses, Course Development and Test Administration, Learning Management, Internships; and, SIN 874 7 - Integrated Business Program Support Services under the Professional Services Schedule 00CORP.

B.2 Task Orders

Phase I: Initial orientation event, pre-inaugural, to orient cabinet level and senior White House staff.

Line Item	Description	Estimated Quantity	Total Fixed Price
0001	Orientation Program for potential appointees and senior White House staff. Government provided facility. Pricing should be all inclusive (e.g., labor, materials, speakers, etc.)	500 attendees

Phase II: Initial orientation event, pre-inaugural, to orient other presidential appointees.

0003	Orientation program for potential appointees as designated by the President Elect in any of the tiers identified whether or not requiring senate confirmation, including sub-cabinet level in the Executive Office of the President, departments and agencies, Senior Executive Service (SES) and, Schedule C appointees that are not otherwise covered by Office of Personnel Management (OPM) orientation activities for SESs and Schedule C employees.	1,000 attendees
0004	Value Added Items (identify offered items, quantity and price – add lines if needed)

RFQ QMAE-VS-170001-D Presidential Appointee Orientation Program

Phase III: Continuing education orientation events as requested, post-inaugural.

Line Item	Description	Estimated Quantity	Total Fixed Price
0005	Orientation program for potential appointees as designated by the President-Elect in any of the tiers identified whether or not requiring Senate confirmation, including sub-cabinet level in the Executive Office of the President, departments and agencies, SES and, Schedule C appointees that are not otherwise covered by Office of Personnel Management (OPM) orientation activities for SESs and Schedule C employees.	2,500 attendees
0006	Value Added Items (identify offered items, quantity and price – add lines if needed)

The estimated quantities for the Phase III continuing education items may be for new attendees that are onboarding (i.e. additional appointees that did not previously receive initial orientation) or continuing education needs for the same attendees that received pre-inaugural orientation. There may be significantly fewer attendees initially, growing in numbers as FY17 advances. Depending on schedules of the various attendees and the approach of the Contractor, this could be done in several smaller sessions or fewer large sessions.

TOTAL EVALUATED PRICE

Line Item	Description	Estimated Quantity	Total Fixed Price
0001 0003 0005	Orientation program	4,000 attendees

Stated quantities are estimates only and are not guarantees of any volume.

If there is a premium for events in the Contractor’s location (rather than a Government facility) it must be identified and included in the price quote. Events may be held at either the Government or Contractor facility. The pricing, above, should clearly indicate whether or not there is a differential for events at the Contractor facility.

B.3 Value-Added Items

Contractors are not required to offer value-added products and services for award of the BPA. The Contractor may provide a variety of value-added products and services that enhance or facilitate the program. The types of products and services are limited to the scope of the BPA, as determined by the Contracting Officer, and must be on the Contractor’s Federal Supply Schedule (FSS) by the time of BPA award or if using a Contracting Teaming Arrangement, on the partner’s FSS. If such products and services are offered, and if there is a cost associated with such products and services, they will be evaluated solely for price reasonableness.

Contractors may distinguish themselves in the evaluation process by offering value-added products and services that are demonstrated to benefit the technical approach of the proposed program as set forth in Section F.

C. STATEMENT OF OBJECTIVES (SOO)

C.1 BACKGROUND

The Presidential Transition Act of 1963, as amended by The Presidential Transition Act of 2000 (P.L. 106-293), the Pre-Election Presidential Transition Act of 2010 (P.L. 111-283) and the Presidential Transitions Improvements Act of 2015 (P.L. 114-136), (collectively the PTA) authorizes an orientation program for key presidential appointees.

C.2 PURPOSE

The purpose of the overall Presidential Appointee Orientation is to provide valuable information, resources and insights to help key appointees succeed in their positions, with a strong focus on collaborative, effective and accountable leadership and management. It is intended to start at the top and extend throughout the Federal Government, establishing the tone and culture of collaboration and accountability for the President's Administration. It is critically important to build teamwork and to foster relationships and cross Government networks in order to achieve the best possible outcomes in areas of top priority to the American people.

As outlined by the PTA, the purpose of the orientation activities is to "acquaint key prospective presidential appointees with the types of problems and challenges that most typically confront new political appointees when they make the transition from campaign and other prior activities to assuming the responsibility of governance after inauguration." Orientation for individuals the President-Elect intends to nominate as department heads or appoint to key positions in the Executive Office of the President will include briefings, workshops, human resources management, and other activities as strategically determined by the President-Elect's team. There are approximately 4,000 appointees, with over 1,200 requiring Senate confirmation, including cabinet secretaries, their deputies, and heads of agencies as well as ambassadors. There are over 350 presidential appointee positions not requiring Senate confirmation, most of which constitute the White House staff and smaller Federal agencies.

In addition, non-career personnel work in key positions beneath the top-tier presidential appointees, partnering with political leaders and civil service employees throughout the Federal Government. Approximately 10% (or 680) of the SES may be political appointees.

Finally, there are 1,401 Schedule C appointees who serve in a confidential policy role in advising political leaders. All of the potential 4,000 appointees (though not brought on at the same time) should be considered in the development of the Appointee Orientation.

C.3 SCOPE

Consistent with the requirements of the PTA, the Contractor shall provide all personnel, tools, equipment, and materials for the development and implementation of the Presidential Appointee Orientation Program for all appointees. The participants in the program will be presidential nominees and appointees in the White House, the Executive Office of the President, departments and agencies that are not otherwise covered by Office of Personnel Management (OPM) orientation activities for SESs and Schedule C employees.

C.4 REQUIREMENTS

The Government requires a Contractor that understands the political landscape and the inner workings of the Federal Government. Consistent with the requirements of the Act, the Contractor shall work with an Administration Steering Group (ASG) comprised of individuals chosen by the President's Administration and led by the Office of Cabinet Affairs (OCA) to guide the program at all stages of planning, development, implementation and evaluation of the program. Neither the ASG nor the OCA has the ability to change the scope and/or content of work. Any such changes determined to be within scope of the BPA would be effected in advance via a contract modification by the Contracting Officer.

The Contractor shall be a subject matter expert(s) in all of the following areas:

- Understanding the President's agenda and the key goals and objectives of the Administration;
- Knowing how to work with others in the White House and across the Federal Government to get things done, effectively and ethically;
- Understanding the Federal Budget, authorization and appropriation processes and how to work with OMB and the Congress on management and budget;
- Understanding effective strategies for outreach and public engagement;
- Knowing how to operationally support and sustain the Administration's commitment to transparency, public engagement, and use of the internet as an interactive communications tool;
- Understanding Government oversight (USOIGs', GAO, Congress) and media scrutiny;
- Understanding effective strategies to motivate and recognize high level performance and accountability for progress and results by career and non-career members of Government teams;
- Understanding Government procurement, procurement integrity, and the acquisition process;
- Understanding the capabilities, limitations and needs of current Government information systems and communications technology;
- Knowing how to successfully accomplish work within the framework of existing laws, Executive Orders and regulations; and
- Understanding human resources management and performance-based management.

RFQ QMAE-VS-170001-D Presidential Appointee Orientation Program

Three phases of the Presidential Appointee Program are envisioned. The first phase will consist of the Initial Event that should include, at a minimum, Presidential Appointees at the cabinet level and senior White House staff. The second phase, which will include additional pre-inaugural activities, as identified, will be the development of the Orientation Program for all appointees. This will include appointees as designated by the President-Elect in any of the tiers identified whether or not requiring Senate confirmation, including sub-cabinet level in the Executive Office of the President, departments and agencies, SES and Schedule C appointees that are not otherwise covered by OPM orientation activities for SESs and Schedule C employees.

The third phase envisions continuing orientation activities for the same Phase II participants, including any replacements and newly “onboarded” participants. These activities will be developed with consideration for the ongoing needs of the Administration.

Phase I - Initial Event: pre-inaugural to orient presidential appointees during the transition.

Participants	Estimated No. of Attendees	Minimum Number of Events
Cabinet Level appointees and senior White House staff	500 attendees	1

Phase II and Phase III - Series of Orientation Activities: may include additional pre-inaugural events as well as post-inaugural events.

Participants	Estimated No. of Attendees	Minimum Number of Events
Appointees as designated by the President-Elect in any of the tiers identified whether or not requiring Senate confirmation, including sub-cabinet level in the Executive Office of the President, departments and agencies, SES and Schedule C appointees that are not otherwise covered by Office of Personnel Management (OPM) orientation activities for SESs and Schedule C employees	3,500 attendees	Dependent on Contractor approach

Work may be performed at the Contractor’s facility (or alternate location for a specific event) and/or various Federal Government locations in the Washington, DC Metropolitan Area or other locations as determined by the Government.

Key Personnel:

The Key Personnel specified in the offer are considered to be essential to work performance. At least 30 calendar days prior to diverting any of the specified individuals to other programs or contracts (or as soon as possible, if an individual must be replaced, for example, as a result of leaving the employ of the Contractor), the Contractor shall notify the Contracting Officer and shall submit comprehensive justification for the diversion or replacement request (including proposed substitutions for key personnel) to permit evaluation by the Government of the impact on performance under the Task Orders. The Contractor shall not divert or otherwise replace any key personnel without the written consent of the Contracting Officer.

RFQ QMAE-VS-170001-D Presidential Appointee Orientation Program

The Government may modify the BPA to add or delete key personnel at the request of the Contractor or Government.

The Contractor's team must be composed of Key Personnel who will play a significant role in the Presidential Appointee Orientation Program. The Contractor must provide résumés of all members of the key personnel team as part of their Technical Quote.

Phase I - Initial Event:

The Contractor shall coordinate with the President-Elect's designee(s) to develop the agenda and format for the initial orientation event. The purpose of this initial event is to focus on achievement of the programmatic priorities, emphasizing such key themes as: teamwork, collaboration among departments and agencies, strategies for outreach and public engagement, effective management in the Federal Government, and accountability for measurable progress and results. Operational principles and practices, including the roles of White House staff, cabinet level and sub-cabinet appointees, information flow, Presidential decision process, and accountability mechanisms will also be discussed. The format is envisioned as interactive and conversational, both in plenary and small group sessions, with the flexibility to address questions, concerns or suggestions raised by the participants. Speakers from inside and outside of the Administration are envisioned to add value and perspective. The desired outcome is for participants to leave informed, connected and energized to achieve important results in the short and long term, tapping the resources available to them (people, technology, innovation) inside and outside of the Federal Government.

Phases II and III:

The Contractor shall perform the following tasks for the Presidential Appointee Orientation Program:

(a) Activity Development - The Contractor shall develop and deliver a series of orientation activities, supplemented by other educational materials, that will acquaint nominees and/or appointees with the types of problems and challenges that most typically confront new political appointees when they assume the responsibility of governance. As a result of orientation, their understanding should include, but not be limited to:

- Accountable leadership – Strong focus on collaborative, effective and accountable leadership and management across Government;
- Working within the Administration to get things done (how to successfully accomplish their work within the framework of existing laws, Executive Orders and regulations);
- What to expect during the Senate confirmation process;
- How to succeed while under Congressional and media scrutiny;
- Lessons learned – Successes and failures of past political appointees;
- Oversight accountability – Working with the Government Accountability Office (GAO), congressional oversight committees and the Inspectors General;
- In concert with Congress – Building productive relationships with Members of Congress and their respective committees;
- Communication and perception – Working in partnership with communications staff on issues of media interest;

RFQ QMAE-VS-170001-D Presidential Appointee Orientation Program

- Public scrutiny – The Government employee vs. the private sector employee;
- Unity of purpose – The importance of political appointees and career Government employees working together in sync;
- Key goals and objectives of the Administration;
- How to be a successful and effective political appointee; and
- Communication and technology – understanding the legacy systems and the requirements surrounding information and communications technology and building on or replacing current platforms.

The Contractor shall propose a non-partisan format and schedule for orientation activities that take into account the nature of the audience and specific topics that may be chosen by designees within the President's Administration.

The Contractor shall coordinate with appropriate Federal Agencies, as necessary, including, but not limited to the GSA, OPM, OMB, the Office of Government Ethics, and the National Archives and Records Administration, regarding presentations and materials that address those agencies' areas of responsibility. The Contractor shall also involve, as appropriate, non-Federal organizations that can contribute to the success of the program and seamlessly manage those organizations in the performance of this program.

(b) Activity Delivery - The Contractor shall provide presenters, panelists, subject matter experts, instructors or facilitators, course materials, and other support items/services for each orientation activity. The Contractor is responsible for securing the location and providing all logistical, administrative, technical, and consultant support required for each orientation activity whether on site facilities are being utilized or via webinar through a remote location.

(c) Resources Library - The Contractor shall identify resource materials for each activity. The Contractor shall provide hard copies and electronic copies of all materials to the Government unless otherwise requested. The Contractor shall provide the GSA with web-based materials as appropriate, and GSA will link it to the Presidential Transition Resources website.

(d) Program Development - The Contractor shall work with the President-Elect's Designee(s) to develop a continuing series of events, beyond the pre-inauguration events and activities, supplemented by educational materials, contacts and other resources to help appointees succeed in their positions.

(e) Design and implement educational materials on important topics that best lend themselves to brief presentations accompanied by online, webinar or hand-out materials. Materials should be broad-based and focus on strategic information, rather than on details that can be acquired from support staff. The following are examples of topics (specific topics to be chosen by the customer):

- Ethics and avoiding conflicts of interest
- The Federal budget process
- Information technology
- Continuity of operations procedures

(g) Arrangement of speakers, panelists, presenters and facilitators, audio-visual and webinars, as needed.

(h) Assistance with internal and external communications about the orientation.

(i) Management Plan - The Contractor shall provide a management plan as part of the quote. The plan is subject to revision based upon decisions made by the President-Elect's designee. The plan should include, but not be limited to:

- Description of Approach shall include the goals, themes, content and format for activities for identified intended audience (e.g. Senate confirmed appointees vs. non-confirmation appointees) and how the Contractor will manage work and resources effectively and seamlessly;

The tables in Section B.2 can be used by the Offeror to provide their respective Total FFP per Phase.

In accordance with FAR 8.404, Offerors are encouraged to offer discounts from their GSA Schedule contract prices. The Government intends to make award without further communications; therefore, it is recommended that each Offeror submit their best offer in response to this RFQ.

The Price submission (Microsoft Excel format - no page limitation) shall include a Total FFP per Phase. To ensure the Total FFP is within the Contractors GSA Schedule rates, a price breakdown shall be included in the price submittal that identifies the composition of the price (e.g., labor category(s), labor rate(s), number of hours, etc.).

F.1 Basis for Award

A BPA award will be made to the responsible Offeror whose offer provides the best value to the Government using a tradeoff process. Best value shall be determined by the Contracting Officer using trade-off procedures considering technical factors, past performance, socio-economic status, and price. When combined, all evaluation factors other than price will be considered significantly more important than price. As quotes become more equal under the non-price factors, the importance of price increases.

The evaluation criteria are listed in descending order of importance:

Factor 1 – Technical Capability and Management Plan:

In evaluating this factor, the Government will look for clear evidence that the Contractor completely understands the Appointee Orientation Program requirements along with the context of current Federal Agency needs and the potential needs and viewpoints of the next Administration. The Contractor understands the objectives; can manage the work and resources effectively; has the relevant experience in the Federal Government political arena; demonstrates the ability to support the President's agenda; and demonstrates the ability to perform successfully. Key personnel proposed have the breadth, depth and knowledge to support the President's agenda and achieve the requirements of the Appointee Orientation Program as described in this RFQ and supported by the PTA. The quote leaves the Government with a high-degree of confidence that services will be delivered timely, in a quality manner, and will result in demonstrative high user-satisfaction.

Factor 2 – Past Performance:

Past performance will be evaluated as part of the risk management strategy under this contract. In evaluating past performance, GSA will consider the relevance in size, scope and complexity of each project to the work required by the RFQ as well as the quality of services provided and customer satisfaction. The rating for this factor will result from the comments received from the references, and any other information available to the Government. The Contracting Officer may identify and analyze the past performance of the Offeror on any other contract or project that they currently have or had of which the Contracting Officer has knowledge or obtains knowledge. Because of the wide variety of past performance history of individual Offerors, the Government is not required to ensure that an equal number of references be obtained for each Offeror.

The price of value-added items, CLINS 0002, 0004, and 0006 (if priced) will not be added to or affect the total evaluated price as these items may or may not be selected by the customer.

The price evaluation will include price completeness and accuracy, price reasonableness, and total cost to the Government. Price will be evaluated to determine if the prices are realistic for the work to be performed, reflect a clear understanding of the requirements, and are consistent with the technical quote. A price breakout shall be provided to show the proposed pricing is in accordance with the Contractor's approved GSA Schedule prices.
